

YOU CAN BECOME A Certificated Prenatal Lactation Educator

Have you heard about this exciting new career?

Lactation educators provide basic education and support to women and their families, beginning at the time of pregnancy and continuing throughout the breastfeeding period. Job responsibilities may include:

- Teaching prenatal breastfeeding classes
- Providing one-on-one breastfeeding education to new mothers
- Answering calls on breastfeeding
- Renting and selling breast pumps

Students transferring to CSUN to earn a B.S. in Nutrition and Dietetics, Nursing or Public Health may need just 2-3 additional courses to also earn a Minor in Human Lactation

CSUN offers a minor in human lactation that prepares students for a career as a lactation educator. Students completing CSUN's minor in Human Lactation Program will receive a certificate enabling them to call themselves a Certificated Prenatal Lactation Educator.
